

THE ORGANIC HUMANITY MOVEMENT

Public Statement Crime Plan

The current South African Government, in line with the United Nations Agenda 21 wants to disarm law-abiding citizens, which comes with several detrimental consequences.

The right to self-defence is the cornerstone of liberty. A government that wants to disarm a nation is a government that wants to exert totalitarian rule. Many people might argue that new gun control laws will lessen crimes, however criminals do not obtain weapons legally and they are not responsible licenced gun owners. Citizens of the country don't only need the right to bear arms, but should be encouraged to do so, so that they can protect themselves from criminals, extremists, and from a government that wants to bring harm to its citizens.

South Africa has a large hunting and recreational firearm community, an industry that is under great threat with the government's growing firearm restrictions.

The way in which OHM proposes to re-structure government, places the individual as the highest form of government. So, when it pertains to your personal safety, you are responsible, then your family, then your community. If all else fails, that is when you turn to local government for help, and if local government cannot provide the solution, then you turn to national government.

Under the current Constitution, criminals are aware that their rights are more important than the rights of law-abiding citizens. Criminals usually have no regard for human life and are not afraid to commit crime because their rights are protected. The fact that criminals are armed whilst citizens are not, puts the people of our country in a very difficult position when it comes to keeping safe and being free.

Criminals should be afraid to commit crime, and this can only be achieved through citizens who are responsible, prepared, and able to defend themselves in any situation.

Personal defense comes with the choice to arm oneself. Law-abiding citizens should have the choice and the right to bear arms. OHM proposes thorough screening and competency testing in the gun ownership and licensing processes.

THE ORGANIC HUMANITY MOVEMENT

Citizens who are found competent should be licenced and each firearm that is purchased should be registered under his/her licence, and this should be kept on record. Processes should also be in place to revoke the license of a gun-owner that is found guilty of committing a crime with a licenced weapon. There should also be proper recording of such offences and offenders.

Our current Constitution, under the Bill of Rights, states that a person has the right to life, however it does not state that a person has the right to protect their own life. The government thus takes upon itself the responsibility of protecting the lives of its citizens, which can result in unnecessary and unjustified control of law-abiding citizens.

OHM opposes this and believes that the Constitution must be amended to affirm the right of citizens to protect life and property.

OHM has a 10-point crime plan:

1. Don't be a criminal.
2. Understand the world is not a safe place.
3. Get a gun license and carry a registered firearm.
4. Protect your property where you work and live.
5. Install surveillance within your property boundaries which only you have access to.
6. Send your family for self-defense training.
7. Have a family emergency plan for various situations.
8. Be involved in your community. Knowledge is power.
9. Don't wait for the police to rescue you.
10. Never trust ANY government, even in a new system. This is particularly integral to a healthy democracy that prioritizes individual liberty.
